I have an associate wondering how one consolidates their student loans; can anyone help with an easy way for my associate to get his student loans consolidated?

I believe that you have to have at least $10k of student loan debt before you can consolidate. In addition, there must be at least two separate loans in order to consolidate. This site has a link to a loan consolidator. Give it a try.

I told my associate to check out the site to see about getting her student loans consolidated, and she apparently found what she needed, thanks for the tip.

In some situations student loan debt can be canceled if you do not have the wherewithall to pay, such as when injured and you have little assets. It just happened to one of my co-workers.
