
Medical Malpractice Case in Georgia

Posted by Rob2010 - 2009/10/08 22:21

We had our case reviewed by a local attorney and he hired an expert to review the case. The expert witness to us that we have a strong case and that we need to move forward ASAP as the statute of limitations is running out. The problem is that we dont want to use the attorney we initially met as he doesnt seem competent so we need advice, quick on an attorney in GA that can handle a straight forward surgical error case.

Name and number please.

Georgia area personal injury lawyer or medical malpractice cases to represent you in a civil matter can be a challenge. Finding an Atlanta area accident lawyer is not difficult - lawyers advertise in telephone books, on billboards, and even on the television. Georgia area personal injury lawyer or medical malpractice attorney is an important decision that should not be based on advertisements or word of mouth alone. There are many factors you should consider when deciding which personal injury law firm will be able to represent your case best. Below are some suggestions you can use to narrow your search.
