

---

u-grad classed

Posted by adivi - 2010/07/15 22:40

---

Which classes do you think an undergrad should make sure he has regardless of his undergrad major if he wants to do well and be accepted into a good law school?

=====

Re:u-grad classes

Posted by jpol - 2010/07/19 22:01

---

Constitutional law, business law and any corporate law class is a good start.

=====

Re:u-grad classes

Posted by laurie - 2010/07/21 22:58

---

Strength in English and writing go a long way in law school. However, some of the best experience comes from clerking at a law firm prior to attending law school.

=====

Re:u-grad classes

Posted by sly - 2010/07/26 22:43

---

Having a fundamental background on Poli Sci or business law is great, but analytical skills are even more essential for getting you thru law school. Take classes that require you to problem solve, like mathematics or engineering courses.

=====

Re:u-grad classes

Posted by J. Cochran - 2010/09/30 23:12

---

I would major in a degree in which i could get a job and i could always minor in poli sci or take business law classes. I think its prudent that you plan on getting a degree that is practical and which lends itself to obtaining a job. I think you need to plan as if you may not go to law school. What will you do if you get a poli sci degree and dont go to law school?

=====

Re:u-grad classes

Posted by abigei - 2010/10/04 22:35

---

Good advice. Now tell me which degree will guarantee me a job?

=====

Re:u-grad classes

Posted by GelRon - 2010/12/06 22:24

---

After watching the 60 minutes episode on Mark Zuckerman, i'm gonna get a degree in computer science!!!

=====

Re:u-grad classes

Posted by laurie - 2010/12/09 00:06

---

---

Try engineering, pharmacy, finance and accounting. They are all solid degrees that blend well with a JD.

=====

Re:u-grad classes

Posted by lawyertrust - 2011/05/03 19:09

---

Actually you can job on the basis of any law degree. Its all depend upon your ability and passion to particular field which is your career aim.

Regards Thrust law group | Phoenix personal injury attorney

To know more about us and dui attorney please visit <http://www.azduilaw.com>

=====

Re:u-grad classes

Posted by J. Cochran - 2011/06/07 23:23

---

i would stick with an accounting degree. at least with an accounting degree you can do tax, accounting or auditing. in addition accounting and law go well together. also consider engineering and law. now thats a great combo!

=====

Re:u-grad classes

Posted by chris - 2011/06/30 23:32

---

Engineer/JDs account for the highest # of top placed law grads in the country. In addition most patent attorneys are pushing retirement age and are looking to build succession plans by bring in young attorneys.

=====